the Civil Service Inquiry Pans Out Rich in Baltimore—An Extradited Woman Threatens to Raise an International

By Telegraph to The Times. CINCINNATI, June 8.—[By the Associated Press.] At 10 o'clock tonight American Express Messenger J. H. Zimmerman and Baggagemaster Joe Ketchum were alone together in the express and baggage-car on the Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Chicago Railroad train, which was due here at 11 o'clock. Zimmerman, when the train left Delhl. 12 miles west of here, called Ketchum's attention to men, supposed to be-tramps, whom he saw through the glass window of the car door leading to the front platform next to the locomotive.

Both men arose and went toward the front door. When within 10 feet of it the tramps began firing through the window. Ketchum fell shot in four places, two balls entering the abdomen, one the breast and one ihe shoulder. Zimmerman tried to draw his pistol, but it stuck in his hip-pocket, and he retreated to the rear platform, where met the conductor. The latter pulled the bell-rope and stopped the train.

While this was going on, one of tramps climbed on the tender, where he was met by the engineer and fireman and knocked stiff by two blows from a monkeywrench. The engineer and fireman rolled him off the tender while the train was at wrench. The engineer and hreman folied him off the tender while the train was at full speed. Before he was thrown overboard, however, a second robber attempted to climb on the tender, but he weakened and dodged back at the sight of the prostrate form of his companion.

Before the train stopped, more than one robber was seen to jump off and disappear in the darkness. All of them wore masks completely covering their faces.

Police mounted and on foot, aided by a large force of citizens are patroling the river front and scouring the country to intercept the scoundrels. The Sheriff is out with a large posse. A train with 30 policemen went down from here, starting at 12 o'clock. The Kentucky authorities have also been notified to have a lookout.

CINCINNATI, June 9.—Morning.—At this hour, 12:40 a.m., no intelligence has been received in this city of the capture of any of the gaug, not even of the man who tumbled off of the locomotive.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

its Workings at Baltimore — John Quinn's Modest Sinecure. BALTIMORE, June 8.—[By the Associated Press. | The select committee of the United States Senate appointed to investigate the operations of civil service methods met here today. The sub-committee present consisted of Senators Hale (chairman), Chace and Blackburn. A score or more of members of the Civil Service Reform Associa-tion of Maryland were present. Charles J. Bonaparte, chairman of the executive committee of the association, testified that a number of Federal officials were known to have engaged in active parti-san work at the primaries. He spoke of these officials, and especially mentioned Morris A. Thomas, Eugene Higgins, J. J. Mahone and l. Freeman Basin. He said that these men had bad characters and reputations.

Senator Blackburn, asked whether these gentlemen had committed any definite act that witness could mention, which would substantiate the assertion that they were men of bad character.

Bonaparte replied that his idea of a man of bad character was one concerning whom general report spoke unfavorably.

John Quinn testified that he is a clerk to the Beiliagand Strengbort Investor and his office.

Witness replied that he was not much of a scholar, and that his son did that part of the work for him.

He was urged again, but declined to write a permit. Witness acknowledged that he had not done a stroke of clerical work for the office since his appointment. His salary is $1200 a year, out of which he pays for his son's board and clothing, amounting, perhaps, to $13 or $15 per week.

The lady arrived in Chicago on Thursday morning and put up at a cheap hotel on State street. There, she alleges, she was assaulted by a party of Germans. She then sought the aid of M. Andre Moudohue, who, today, went to 1302 Indiana avenue, the address given him by Mme. Gouzeena, in search of Dr. Cyr. The people living there knew nothing of the Doctor, and the Consul so reported to the lady. At this she became so violent that it was thought best to send her to the North Side for treatment.

She was at once rearrested on a bench warrant, and charged with a forgery in no way connected with the case on which she was extradited. She was at once taken before Judge Gildersieeve by her counsel, who demanded her release, saying that it was an international question; that the woman was under the protection of the British Government against proceedings except in the case for which she was extradited, and that he would not be responsible for the consequences to this Nation if she were not at once released.

Judge Gildersieeve decided that he could take no action until he had the official record of the United States Commissioner who discharged her on the extradition case. Pending the fulfillment of this requirement she was sent to police heardquarters.

The Local Fish Market-The Seduc tive Barracuda and the Scintillating Bonita - A Hint to the Epicurean Palate-Itapid Growth

A seductive subject, a topic claiming the most absorbing interest from the President of the United States, who in the wilds of the Catskills, avoids snags piscatorial as well as political, to the bare-legged urchin who selnes the zanja with dilapidated straw sombrero, the fascination of fiu and fly, the romance of rod and reel find favor among a large portion of the amusement seekers. But there are many to whom the trout stream and the perch pool have no trout stream and the perch pool have no charms, whose souls yearn not for bobbin and bait. There are those who care not for the delights of troiling, fly fishing or salmon spearing. Many see no joy in a rippling brook, where sycamores droop over-head and the ferns wave their feathery fans on either side, where the moss-grown bou oulder

THE WATCHFUL BASS, ald-striped, keeps his weather-eye ed for the vernal junebug. There are those so torpid that the set-line, angle-worm and catúsh combination is too excitworm and cathsh combination is too exciting for their nervous system, and they seek change and diversion from the humdrum and dull monotony of life in choosing the biggest smoked herring in the grocery reservoir. Such there are, people too lazy to catch a fish. But there never was a man yet too lazy to eat one. When it comes to the cooked variety, the whole census returns can be classed as strictly piscivorous, and so it has always been sluce primeval man, way back in the days of mastodon and mammoth eked out his scanty diet by levying tribute on mudbanks and pools along the margins of the rivers, and turned an appreciative tooth and a grateful stomach to the finny tribe. As man became more luxurious and wis tastes and wants multiplied, so were the fishes made to do yet more claborate if not more important duty. The ancient Greeks and Romans in their splendor and power made the various fishes spiendor and power made the various fishes play an important part in their epicurean living.

were made more generous by adding to the delicacies of his capital fishes that were swimming the day before in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, and brought almost at tailroad speed by relays of carriers. Professional epicures of all time have ever turned with renewed fondness to the inexhaustible novelties of the deep and crowded nommunities, whose teeming millions exhaust the soil, ward off famine and amend scanty fare with the ever-replenished food supply beneath the waves. It is in such communities, where necessity has been the teacher, that the fish diet is appreciated and the culinary art has brought the fish dishes to the highest degree of excellence, where variety is attained and delicacy appreciated. Where necessity, however, does not point out the way this healthful, toothsome source of food supply does not receive its proper proportion of attention.

Thus it is that California has her orange groves heralded atar, her grapes and olives made famous and her vegetables renowned, while the 67 varieties of food fishes with which the Santa Barbara Channel teems are seldom heard of in pamphlet or review. Thus it is that vine and palm, grizzly and grouse, adorn State seals, while the silver armor and the clittering phalanxes of the proudest of marine monarchs,

It is the purpose of this article to remind old residents and inform new comers of the tempting list of fishes to which they may resort, to call to their attention the fact that they may eat fish twice a day for two months right here in Los Angeles, and yet never eat the same kind twice during that time. That among the different kinds will be found varieties in flavor of the widest range and most pronounced type. In pursuance of this object the following

The garfish is in the same category, poor, intrinsically, but valuable as a foil to sharpen appreciation of more delicate kinds which have become a surfeit.

OUR FISHING GROUNDS.
Of course, all of the above fishes com from the fleet making San Pedro its head-quarters. The inlets of the coast, the adja-ceut waters of Catalina, the Santa Barbara Channel, the marshes and bays, mud bot-toms where the flounder loves to repose, all are the inexhaustible reservoirs, marine grain fields, untilled and not half harvested, which promise abundance and blenty to the 50,000,000 who will one day make California the proudest State in the empire of liberty. The carp and catish found on sale are from ponds and reservoirs, and are brought in by farmers generally. They are valu-able when storms at sea prevent the fisher-men from casting their nets, and have a further advantage in that they can be prerom the fleet making San Pedro its head further advantage in that they car be preserved alive and fresh until required for the table. This point is well understood and availed of by Chinamen, but requires too much trouble for most Caucasian housewives.

SHELL FISH. Of course clams of all kinds, cockles, scollups, muscles, the small but toothsome donax, crawfish and shellfish generally are to be had always, cheap and fresh. Lob-sters come from the north. THE FISH CONSUMPTION OF LOS ANGELES.

In conclusion, it may be of interest to the eaders of THE TIMES to learn a few items oncerning the state of the fishemarket as a whole and the growth of the business. As to the amount in gross, supplied by the southern waters to this market, the followsouthern waters to this market, the follow-ing figures given by the express effice as an average week, will give a fair idea of the importance of the industry. The figures given are the number of pounds shipped daily for one week:

It will be seen that aton of fish a day to the tables of hotels, boarding houses, restaurants and private families. The amount of money involved and the number of men to whom employment is given, is no insignificant feature in the industrial interests of this section. That this promises material augmentation is evinced by the fact that the amount handled by express has doubled in the last 12 months, and that, whereas, the baggagemaster found time to .14.512 Total.

has doubled in the last 12 months, and that, whereas, the baggagemaster found time to attend to the handling of this business in conjunction with other duties, a special messenger now devotes his entire time to messenger now devotes his entire time to this one matter of transportation.

With regard to consumption, Mr. J. N. Mersch, a member of a prominent fishing company in this city, estimates that one-half the total supply is consumed by hotels, boarding-houses and restaurants, one-fourth by Chinamen, who, as will be remarked, are great fish-eaters, and one-fourth by rivate families. This estimate is for the present time. During the winter the proportion is more in favor of the family. For instance, whereas now family orders will number but 20 or 30 in a day, in the winter they will amount to 150. The season makes a difference of 100 per cent. in consumption. This is an important fact and suggests the necessity of improved facilities for cold storage and

Could the time between the catch and the consumption, between the seine and the stewpan, so to speak, be reduced, more peostewpan, so to speak, be reduced, more peo-ple would indulge in this varied diet more liberally. But until the present hiatus be-tween the sail and sauce boats is abridged, the summer must work detriment to the fish industry. Now that the cattle age and sheep era have passed away in turn, and the wheat-field gives way before the advancing plumes of the hosts of clive and orange, of vine and fig.

STAPLE FOOD SUPPLIES become a problem for the student of the economics of the future. It is with relief and confidence that he can turn to the generous schools of barracuda, yearly bringing a procession of plenty to these shores, to the never-failing mackerel, the small but countiess sardine, and their finny companions, and see generous provision for all time. It is with relief and confidence, too, that the sated epicure, sighing for more gastronomic worlds to conquer, can turn to the fish market and find ever something new, something palatable, something healthful with which to tempt an over-fastidious stomach.

arrived too late, however, to do any good, and the woman died despite all his efforts. Coroner Meredith held an inquest on the body yesterday afternoon, when it was learned that the young woman came out from Philadelphia about four months ago with her invalid father to spend the winter at Santa Barbara. The father was taken much worse on the train, and they stopped over at Pasadena, where he died the following day. Since that time Miss Blancjour has been very despondent. Several days ago she went out to Pasadena to see some friends. When she returned she complained of feeling badly, and said she was in great pain, but that she would get some medicine at a drugstore. She did so, and retired. Later her uncle, who rooms in the house, heard her breathing heavily, and on going to see what was the matter, discovered her to be in a stupyr, and at once summoned a physician. Miss Blancjour was about 25 years of age. The jury returned a verdict of death from an overdose of laudanum, but whether by accident or with intent to commit suicide they could not say.

For the benefit of fresh newspaper reporters, and some few others, it might be well to explain that by the term 'openly" is meant that there is no attempt at concealment, and that almost any can go in and play that wants to, not the street doors are open, which is an absurdity on the face of it. The position of the Chief of Police is severely criticised by every one, except a few professional politicians, who belong to the gamblers body and soul, while Mayor Workman and Mr. Humphreys are universally commended for their efforts in behalf of law and order, and they are making friends every day. Then, too, the report of the Grand which literally corroborates and affirms every statement made in THE TIMES has been a strong card, and has very effectually silenced a number of newspapers and other croakers who have all along affected to believe that the statements were merely news-paper talk, published for the purpose of creating a sensation, and has opened the eyes of the people to the real state of affairs now prevailing, and which they are deter-nined shall be stopped at all hazards. The Clerk was on hand with a list of the present police force, and also a list of the applicants for positions, numbering near 200. These documents were handed to the Mayor, when the Commissioners retired to the private office, politely shut the doors in the faces of the waiting reporters and spectators, and went into secret session. They remained closeted for about an hour and a half, and when they emerged from retirement announced that nothing had been done, and adjourned for refreshments. Of course the Commissioners have a legal right to hold secret sessions, but, in view of the present state of affairs, and the rumors afloat in which they are mixed up, it was bad taste, to say the least, and only gave grounds for more talk. It is possible, however, that there will be a number of changes at the next meeting.

thinking that some injustice had been done him. In order to settle the matter and clear up the mystery about the affair, if there is any, the Police Commissioners will probably look into the matter, and see where any blame attaches, if such is the case. TIE AND TRACK.

Why the Freight Business Is Dull— Some Interesting Figures. The railroad yards and freight depots are about the dullest places in the city now. Empty cars are few and loaded ones fewer. It requires only the shortest time for the crews of freight hands to dispose of the small trains that come in, and that done everything settles down to a quiet that almost approaches stagnation. A railroad official, questioned as to the dullness in the local fruight havings said that the only local freight business, said that the only reason to be assigned for it was that during the freight blockades of the winter and reason to be assigned for it was that during the freight blockades of the winter and spring the merchants were suffering for the want of merchandise. They made big orders. The orders were delayed. When the blockade was broken the goods came in all in a bunch, some of them too late for the season, and in consequence everybody was overstocked. Now those goods are being sold off, and in the meantime the railroad are doing little freight business. "It is not," he concluded, "any great lack of retail trade; that is good enough considering the season, but it is all, as I have said, on account of the overstocking. Some of the railroad people are trying to give the impression that business is still good with them, but it is a mistake. The roads are not doing anything to speak of, much as they insist to the contrary."

That is one railroad man's view of the situation. A Southern Pacific man takes a different one, and says there is no let-up in the freight business beyond what is natural and what occurs every year at this season. However, a walk about the yards will demonstrate the fact that if business is good, it's all done curing the night, when in one is around to see it.

The local passenger traffic is fairly good. The people in the surrounding towns will come to Los Angeles if the railroad fare breaks them.

The TAN GAMES.

The situation in Chinatown grows worse every day, and yesterday it was learned that there were at least 28 tan games in operation, all of which, it is said, are paying $50 per week tribute for the privilege of the present state of affairs and the money, which is turned over to Ah Toy and Ah Him. Ah Toy is supposed to make the final disposition of this cording place on Spring street, about the Courtbouse, and when he gets tirred of gain, the police station, but lately has made his locking from court to First, apparently looking for some one he never appears to find. He never talks to any one, and a casual observer would see nothing out of the general years of the summary of the server would see nothing out of the general years of the summary of the province of the province of the present state of affairs can be learned; yesterday, but the following will give the officers enough to work on until the examining 10 or 15 can be learned; year that the the summary of the days 7 hours 39 minutes and 16 sec-onds. The Santa Fé short line to San Diego is being pushed right along, and an official said yesterday that the road would be completed as soon as promised, by the middle of July. The work up to a few weeks ago had been going along rather slowly. Their franchise for entering Santa Ana was about to expire. An extra force was put on, and the track was laid at the rate of a mile and a half a day, until they reached the town on the night before the franchise expired. THE SAME OLD GANG.

Bunco" Men Who Are Known to the Police, but Are Never Arrested. Thursday a man named John McNevins was robbed by a gang of bunco men, at a building on Upper Main street, of about $400. The matter was reported at the police station, and McNevins sat about the place for some time waiting to see what would be done. When asked about the matter he said that he had been advised to say nothing about it, and refused to talk. An officer ing about it, and refused to talk. An officer was put on the case, but up to this time there has been no arrest. A Times reporter was in possession of the facts within a few hours after the occurrence of the robbery, but at the solicitation of one of the officers said nothing about it, as it was claimed that the publication might defeat the ends of justice. The place where the game was worked has figured in police circles more than once under the same circumstances, the first case having come up during Darcy's administration, but as the proprietress declares that she knew nothing about the character of the men, and that she only intends to run a respectable lodging-house, her name is not given. The police, however, know where the place is, and from all accounts it is the same old scheme, worked by the same old gang.

The speaker began-by saying that there were moments in history when one man was worth millions; when one man held the destiny of a nation in his grasp. Whe was worth millions; when one man held the destiny of a nation in his grasp. Whe Leon Gambetta died six years ago the sigh of relief which Germany gave was one of the greatest tributes to him. But that sigh came from a mistaken idea of the man. He was not like Bismarck, the booted and spurred representation of Mars; nor like Beaconsfield, a political intriguer. He was a plain gentleman in broadcloth.

History contains no account of a life more brilliant, more dramatic or more courageous than that iof Gambetta, and meither the death of Gladstone nor of Bismack would shake their countries as the death of Leon Gambetta shook his.

In the eighth year of the reign of Louis Phillipe, the speaker said, Gambetta was born in a secluded city in the south of France. His father was an Italian and his mother a French woman, a fusion which has ever produced genius. At the time of his birth, there was published in Paris that great French journat the Nationale, a sheet strongly Republican in its teudencies. Gambetta's mother taught him to read from the columns of that paper, and from her and the journal he imbibed his ideas of Republicanism. He was born a Republican.

The speaker then sketched Gambetta's history as a boy, following him to Paris, where he began and finished the study of law, thence into the little café where he and a few companions denounced the Royalists, and Gambetta registered his oath as to what he would do when the oppertunity instory as a boy, following him to Paris, where he began and finished the study of law, thence into the little cafe where he and a few companions denounced the Royalists, and Gambetta registered his oath as to what he would do when the oppertunity came. Then the speaker went on to where, by an accident, Gambetta came into the Court of Correction of Police to defend some speakers who had delivered an oration over the grave of a patriot of the Second Republic, and some journalists who had published the proceedings at the grave. The opportunity he had so long waited for had come, and he made an attack upon the throne which made him famous in a day, and gave him his start toward the high position he afterwards reached. He dared upon that occasion to speak what all France thought.

Gambetta's life was further followed to where he made his first really great speech against the methods of elections then held in France, resulting in the abolishing of those methods. Then on into the revolution, reciting very graphically Gambetta's escape from beleaguered Paris in a balloon, his going into the south of France, and there raising, according to promise, an army of 600,000 men in six week, a military achievement never equaled. Then, through the first life of the Third Republic when Gambetta was winning fame as a deputy, and then to the close of his life as editor of the Republique Franceise.

Gambetta was, the speaker asserted, as much an orator as a statesman. He studied no school of oratory nor any particular method, but he embraced all methods and all schools. Some of his inspirations equaled those of Demosthenes. He had the frame possessed by all great orators, and his volce was magnificent. He was so fascinating that, when he made his great speech resigning his portfolio as Premier, even those who had voted for his downfall were forced to appliause. He was full of invective, and was always aggressive. These were the only charges that even his enemies could make against him.

It has been claimed, said the speaker, that h

Other witnesses testified to the boards being perfectly useless for draughting purposes, but the jury nevertheless returned a verificit for the plaintiff for $40. A curious feature of the case was the fact that suit and been entered against Apponyl and Gray as partners, but yesterday Gray appeared as the right bower of G. L. Stearns.

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one-third the size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whalever, i was persuaded to try your Curtoura Rewedless, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified, and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and today, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect, and not a sign of the disease to be sen.

Constitutional: Catarrh

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind—one or more, and sometimes all yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most butter that the constitutions. Ignored, because the constitutions. Ignored, because the same stood, and breaks up the most butter the suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr Sanford in the preparation of his Radical Curr has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the bead, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kiddeys.

"LETTERS TO THE TIMES."

"Licensing Crime."

Verder, June 4.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Noting a communication in last Tuesday's Times, from J. W. Potts, in regard to the prohibition question, in which the writer makes the reckless statement so often indulged in by the Prohibitionists, that the granting of licenses to sell intoxicants is "licensing crime," I am constrained to reply.

The fallacy of all prohibition arguments consists in the willful and persistent confounding of the questions of use and abuse. The syllogism by which they reach their conclusion is this: Man commits crime because he gets drunk, because he jet advunk, because he is allowed to drink that which intoxicates. Therefore, prevent him from getting intoxicating liquor to drink and you prevent the crime because he petts drunk, he gets drunk because he gets drunk, because he gets drunk because he gets drunk, because he gets drunk because he gets drunk because he gets drunk because he gets drunk because note, nat the store not been licensed to sell deadly weapons, the crime would not have been committed!

In these two propositions the Prohibitionists will probably discover a distinction without finding a difference.

The Prohibitionists contend that the drinking of wine or other intoxicants, mild or strong is a crime per se, that mild or strong, is a crime per se., that is, wrong in itself, whether followed by apparent evil effects or not. They must claim, to be consistent, that to apparent evil effects or not. They must claim, to be consistent, that to this rule (except in rare cases of sickness) there can be no exception; that the solitary inhabitant of a desert island who drinks the contents of a bottle of wine, which the wave throws at his feet, is as much of a sinner as he who drinks it at the "gilded saloon." Or, if they do not claim this, they must admit that wine drinking is not wrong at all times, but is wrong under certain circumstances. In this last proposition, nearly all good citizens agree. If we claim that the drinking of wine at any time and under all circumstances is wrong, we condemn the practice of thousands of good men of the present time, of millions who have lived in the past and have doubtless passed to heaven, cast reflections upon Martin Luther, who was probably wiser than the most of us, and even reflect by indirection upon the frequent practice of the Savior of Mankind, for there is no foundation, in fact, for the theory that the wine of Cana and Gethsemene was different from any other.

In claiming to attack the crime of different from any other.

In claiming to attack the crime of dtrunkenness at the source in striking at the manufacture and sale of liquors, the Prohibitionists make another misthe Prohibitionists make another mis-take, fatal to the success of the work in which the most of them are en-gaged. Instead of striking at the source, they are working away down near the mouth of the stream, and working as ineffectually as if with bare hands they attempted to carry mud with which to dam the onward sweep of water in the Mississippi. The source of the evil is in the human neart, in the evil desire, and no mere human law is high enough to reach and stop the evil desire, and no mere human law is high enough to reach and stop it. Drunkenness is a great evil, a great crime, one which can and should be punished as other crimes are, but wine drinking is not necessarily a crime, and no human statute can make it so. The spirit of the Prohibitionists resembles that of the old Puritans, admirable within certain limits, but impracticable, a spirit which says to the practicable, a spirit which says to the erring one: "Why ain't you as good as I am? Confound you, I'll make you good, anyhow."

The Prohibition movement is by no means identical with the temperance question. It is a movement accom-panied or preceded by the blare of trumpet and the roll of drum. The rrumpet and the roll of drum. The Prohibition party is a political party, and not, as the majority of its members no doubt believe, a great moral and God-fearing party engaged in an unselfish work for the benefit of mankind. How many of the members of the party believe in their heart of hearts that John P. St. John is a temperature reformer for such else these perence reformer for aught else than revenue only? Imagine Peter the Hermit preaching the crusade at $100 per night. Picture to yourselves Martin Luther promulgating the gospel of the reformation in the towns of Germany where he was guaranteed a cermany, where he was guaranteed a cer-tain sum per lecture, and allowing the rest of the world to go unreformed! Here is an almost literal quotation from a circular announcing a lecture by St. John about six months ago, in a from a circular announcing a lecture by St. John about six months ago, in a town not 10 miles from Los Angeles: "This is the only town in the county, outside of Los Angeles, that has sufficient enterprise and money to secure the services of this eminent Prohibition orator." The quotation is given from memory, and may not be exact as to phraseology, but is correct as to the meaning. This reformer for revenue has just been made chairman of the National Prohibition Convention at Indianapolis. If a high license law has failed to decrease the number of drunkards, in Los Angeles, for instance, let us remember also that while drunkenness has been on the increase, so have the advocates of prohibition multiplied. If prohibition is a true temperance movement, why are not its good effects visible? The answer is, not because this third political party is not permitted to make new laws, but because the members of that party are working onlyfor a remote and wholesome reform, and are neglecting every day the numberless opportunities to day doed which the members of that party are working onlyfor a remote and wholesome reform, and are neglecting every day the numberless opportunities to do good which lie close at hand.

High license, nor any other human statute, will never stamp out drunkenness. But high license and other severe legal restrictions (such as can be found in the new license law of Pennsylvania, given to that State by the Republican party in opposition to the combined efforts of the whisky men and the Prohibitionists) will reduce the evil to a minimum, provided that good citizens will attend to the enforcement of the same. Talking, voting, writing, and attending political conventions, is not, as a rule, self-sacrificing work, nor in themselves are they sufficient to reform the world and touch the great heart of humanity. Francis Murphy has done more true temperance work and been the instrument under God of reforming more men than the modern St. John and any half dozen of his apostles. And yet Francis Murphy is not a Prohibitionist. As for local modern St. John and any half dozen of his apostles. And yet Francis Murphy is not a Prohibitionist. As for local option in towns, however, that is a measure that can only be brought into being by a vote of the majority, and when the majority of the people want it they should certainly have it, as, whether effectual or not, its success or failure in a limited area is easily demonstrated.

Not a dollar appears in my accounts until either the County Auditor or the State Superintendent of Public Instruction notifies me of the amount to be apportioned to the different school districts, nor is there any money paid upon these accounts until the trustees of a school district draw an order unon me, upon which I draw a requisition upon the County Auditor, who draws a warrant upon the County Treasurer, and then, for the first time and by the only officer who holds the coin, the demand is paid.

I hold vouchers for all requisitions I have drawn, and am anxious to have have drawn, and am anxious to have the experts take the weeks they say will be needed to examine accounts, which their two days' investigation caused the Grand Jury to criticise.

Respectfully, W. W. SEAMANS, County Superintendent of Schools The Naked Truth.

"The Times' [Associated Press] reporter writes from the St. Louis Convention that on Tuesday evening a party of two score ladies visited the Pacific Coast headquarters. Farther on, the account tells us, the chairman 'beat a hasty retreat before the fire of forty sparkling eves.'

on, the account teils us, the chairman beat a hasty retreat before the fire of forty sparkling eyes."

"Are we to understand that those two score ladies had each but one eye? If so, we do not wonder that the chairman fled. Forty one-eyed ladies all in a bunch! And was the solitary orb, like that of the Gorgon trio, in the middle of the forehead? And did they turn to stone all they looked upon? Surely that throng need nothing more to harden them.

"Doubtless those forty ladies are staunch little Democrats, with an eye single to the glory of the 'unterrified, and unterrifying.' Perhaps this imperfect vision is the reason for being in their ranks. The eye-openers indulged in at the 'fair symposium' ought to have resulted in converting them from the error of their ways, but alas! for feminine contumacy and obduracy, the next evening they repeated their raid on California's hospitality and her viands, and this time decollette. Out of consideration for abbreviated costumes and cold-catching contingencies, each lady was given a red bandana; but whether the high-colored kerchiefs were used to cover the fair necks and shoulders our informant sayeth not. They have threatened another visit before the close of the great pow-wow, and it is hoped they will utilize the gift and heed the lesson it was so delicately intended to convey. A red bandana will be a fitting emblem for the coming campaign—serving, as A red bandana will be a fitting emblem for the coming campaign—serving, as it were, for a signal of danger or flag of distress. E. B."

A Fortunate Druggist.

Mr Edwin W. Joy for many years and now a prosperous druggist on the corner of Stockton and Markot streets in San Francisco probably never dreamed of rivaling in wealth the medicine kings of the country. But various rumors having been foating around to the effect that he has struck it big, an Esaminer reporter was detailed to unearth the cause, and after much difficulty nursyelled the following story:

big, an Esaminer reporter was detailed to unearth the cause, and after much difficulty unravelled the following story:

Hisseems that about seven years ago an English physician, a great student of botany, located for a brief season in this city. His practice was not extensive, and yet the few cases of a general nature that came to him attracted no little attention. His greatest success seemed to be in the treatment of liver and kidney disorders, and vitiated blood. In fact his ability to cope with these common complaints was little short of the marvelous. Ho seemed almost infallible, and his quiet, modest methods and his well kept secret was as much a mystery as himself. After his departure about a year later Mr. Joy determined to fathom the secret, and copying all the prescriptions he had filled for the erratic doctor, he began a systematic analysis. In his examination he discovered ruaning all through the prescriptions for liver and kidney troubles, viliated blood and siomach discovers a couple of vegetable extracts indigenous to California, so simple and so well known under homely every day names to every school boy as to entirely dissipate the suspicion that they were the active principles involved. So certain, however, was Mr. Joy that he had discovered the secret that he embodied the new elements in a preparation of sarsaparilla to disguise tho taste, and put it before his customers under the modest name of Aprix Vegetable Sarsapapilla. Immediately the same marvelous stories came back of its astonishing effects, and the mystery was solved, and they that over the coast. People seem to be taking it and verting and talking about it throughout the State. And thus another California industry leaps into existence.—S. F. Esaminer.

Some Pertinent Opinions.

The coming political contest will be one largely of principles rather than men. The effect of the proposed Mills Tariff Bill is engaging the earnest attention of thinking voters throughout the country. Workingmen are beginning to see the probable effects of Democratic success in its true light. A few days ago we noticed the action of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel Workers in officially joining a protective league. Such action was most significant at the present time, and should encourage the Republican leaders in their efforts to defeat the projects of the free traders.

The Senate is arranging for a thorough inquiry into the subject of the tariff. It is the purpose of the Senate to give representatives of the various industries of the country, who desire to be heard upon the subject, an opportunity to present their respective views. This privilege, it will be remembered, was denied them by the Ways and Means Committee on the House side. The result of this investigation will be most interesting and instructive. Meantime, a considerable amount of unofficial investigation has been going on by the press and private citizens. Among other journals, the Pittsburgh open to the public every night until Dispatch has been furnishing a large amount of interesting reader matter of the country of the passage of the Mills Bill. The following inquiries proposed by the Dispatch were sent to a considerable number of iron manufacturers:

1. The present condition, and the cause hereof, of the iron and steel trade and the outlook.

2. The probable effect of the passage of the Mills Bill upon the trade,

3. Its effect upon prices and wages.

4. The steps that must be taken to meet the issue arising from the new order of things, should the Mills Bill pass.

5. The effect of previous tariff agitations upon the trade.

Space will not permit more than a few brief extracts from the numerous replies received from these questions. They are very significant.

J. G. Butler of the Brier Hill Iron and Coal Company, Youngstown, O.,

says:
I think, if the bill should pass, the consequences would be disastrous in the extreme. It would be a leap into the unknown, and history would simply repeatitself, and we would land where we have always landed before when the country was working under free trade or low tariff.

J. F. Speer, of Schoenberger & Co. Pittsburgh, says: How the surplus revenue is to be reduced by inviting largely increased imports arising from a reduction in duties is beyond the power of ordinary mortals to see. The present depressed condition of trade has been caused largely by the agitation of the tariff, and we will be only too glad to see some intelligent tariff bill passed that will make the workman and manufacturer alike feel that we are free from change, at least, for a series of years.

John Fulton, general manager of the John Fulton, general manager of the Cambria Iron Company, writes:

Cambria Iron Company, writes:

The passage of the Mills Bill would unquestionably lead to large importations of steel rails and other forms of English steel. It would put it in the power of foreign manufacturers to disturb and disorganize our industries at will, and some brauches of business would be lost to the country altogether. We should have to surrender the rail trade accessible from the Pacific Coast, the Southern Atlantic and Gulf ports, and it is very doubtful if the general business of manufacturing rails could be maintained upon a paying basis, even with very considerable and permanent reduction of wages."

President O. W. Potter of the North

President O. W. Potter of the North Chicago Rolling Mill has the following

The present price of steel rails, bar Iron, iron ore or pig metal does not mean prosperous manufactures in these branches of business, and any such reasoning does not argue for the well-being of our people. Cheap shoes does not mean prosperous makers, cheap money does not mean prosperous banking, cheap ore does not mean prosperity to the miner, the railway or vessel that carries it, or the men that own the mine, or prosperity to anybody connected with them.

Cyrns Elder of the Cambria Iron

Cyrus Edder of the Cambria Iron Cornpany said:

The enormous contribution of our Bessemer steel industry to the steel product of the world, greater than that now made by England, is indispensable to the continued industrial progress of the country. The Bessemer Industry has given us an age of steel, and in the substitution of steel for iron this country has displayed great activity and ingenuity. The American steel industry may not be obliterated by the Mills Bill if it becomes a law, but it will be harrassed and bedeviled, and rendered unprofitable, and the consumer will be the sufferer in the end. In such primary processes as the manufacture of iron and steel, the ordinary wear and tear of plant is a heavy charge, and every new invention and improvement makes wholesale confiscation of invested capital. The thing that is good must be pulled down to make place for that which is better, and this must be sacrificed in turn for the thing that is best Nothing but the best will answer, and there must be full and constant employment of the best machinery to produce the best results for the consumer. This would be impossible under conditions which would make this country a slaughter market for English manufacturers, who would find their profit in renewing their ancient policy, commended by Lord Brougham as an Company said:

Company, writes:

If they pass the Mills Bill it will cause as many failures as the tariff of '46 did, and eventually a suspension of specie payments by encouraging large importations, and impoverishing our people by lack of employment and low wages. That will mean general stagnation throughout the country. It will have the same effect as Henry Clay's compromise tariff of 1832 had. I remember all of those well. I have been in business since 1834, have seen and known all the ups and downs for 65 years.

These well considered opinions, by Company, writes:

These well considered opinions, by prominent men who are in a position to be thoroughly cognizant of the subject, are, indeed, most important, and Clark. ... Seizure of smuggled opium at In-dianapolis.... Herr von Puttkamer, Prus-sian Minister of Interior, resigns.... Lon-dustry, be it remembered. Other leading industries could tell the same tale.

In view of these facts it is, indeed, difficult to see how any but professional politicians and their hangers-on can find it in their hearts to vote the Democratic ticket this fall, and by doing so lend a helping hand to the destruction of that wonderful prosperity in which they all, as American citizens, are sharers to a greater or less degree. It is not, this year, a question of Cleveland against Sherman or Gresham-or whoever the Republican candidate may be. It is the dignity and prosperity of American labor against the interests of British and other foreign manufacturers. It is American manhood against the underpaid, half-fed and degraded toilers of Europe. Can there be any doubt of the result of such a

An Opening for Capital.

The subject of manufactures cannot be too often brought to the front in Los Angeles. While everybody was half crazy on real estate speculation, and nothing less than a hundred per cent, a month was thought worthy of notice, there was little hope of interesting the public on this subject, but now matters are different; confidence in the permanence of our progress is established, and capitalists are looking around for remunerative investments around for remunerative investments of a solid description.

There are many things that can be produced here at a profit, over the cost of bringing from the East. As soon as manufacturing is mentioned, the fuel question is at once brought forward, but there are many kinds of goods which can be mauufactured in which fuel plays but a small part, and the excess expended in that direction is more than compensated by savings in others. Among other things, fine shoes can be made here at a profit. The shoes worn on this coast are somewhat different from those required for the eastern trade, and can be made here at a profit, besides lowering the cost to the people. A plant to produce 400 pairs per working day would require about $50,000 capital, and give employment to about 100 persons. The ground would cost say $2000, building $5000, machinery $10,000 to $13,000, leaving some $30,000 for orking capital. A 12-horse-power engine will furnish the power and warm the building. The fuel to run such an engine would hardly be noticed in the cost of production, and would not exceed the cost in the East of warming of a solid description.

There are many things that can be amount of interesting reader matter on this subject—the probable effects upon the trade and general industries of the construction of the construc cost of production, and would not ex-ceed the cost in the East of warming the building. Shoes are charged a high freight, while leather is carried at a very low rate. Much of the stock is imported, and that part need not cost more than in the East. All things considered, there is a promising opening for a profitable business, contingent only upon good management. Should any of our capitalists desire to investigate this matter, we shall be pleased to gate this matter, we shall be pleased to put them in the way of obtaining more specific information on the subject.

More Bridges Needed.

Residents on the east side of the river, which section is rapidly building up, complain, with much reason, of the miserably inadequate facilities for crossing the river. The entire section south of First street, composing almost half the geographical area of the city, has no bridge over the river, and a person desiring to come from southern Boyle Heights to the southern portion of the city has to make a detour of several miles to reach his destination. Several months ago, a petition of prominent property owners was brought before the Council, containing a list of subscriptions, aggregating $4000, which was offered to secure a bridge at Ninth street. This sum was bridge at Ninth street. This sum was estimated to be about half the cost of a bridge, and was certainly a liberal offer. The petition was referred to the Bridge Committee, and has not since been heard from.

It would be a good thing if this project, involving so small an expense to the city, could be carried through, as it would prove an immense convenience, not only to the residents of the southeastern part of the city, but also to productive adjacent country, which is now in a measure shut off from convenient access to its natural supply point.

Teach Them What the Flag Means. The practice which has been adopted by the State of New York of presenting American flags to the public chools is warmly commended by Gen. schools is warmly commended by Gen. Sherman. He says:

"I would like to see the custom extend all over the United States. There will be no Anarchists in the coming generations of Americans, if the children gain a love for our flag, and are taught to understand just what it means. They will be proud that they are Americans, and if war comes they will defend that flag with their lives, if necessary."

made universal, and, in addition, it would be essential to teach the children of our schools the leading ideas symbolized by the flag of our country. Let them be made familiar with the neroism that has preserved its honor, and the sovereign rights of citizenship which it protects. A few minutes' talk will enable them clearly to understand that the American flag represents more freedom and greater happiness for the race than the flag of any other nation. Understanding this, how can they fail to reverence it, or to stand ready for its defense?

By Telegraph to The Times.
WASHINGTON, June 8.—[By the Associwas announced that Gen. Sheridan's mind was perfectly clear. He was resting quietly, with little or no pain, and for a time his condition slightly improved. The organic diseases from which he suffers, however, remain unyielding. He was more or less delirious all through the night, not violently, but he could not recognize mem bers of his family or physicians, and refused to take any medicine or nourishment. Abou Robert Coleman will spend the summer in 5 o'clock this morning his mind was cleare and he readily took peptonized milk. Each of the several attacks which he has had lately has left him much weaker than the previous one. His rallies are but partial and unsatisfactory, and altogether the case is a most desperate one. From information received from a high source, it is believed that the end is not far off.

A DUIET DAY.

A bulletin issued at 1 p.m. read as fol-

"Gen, Sheridan has been resting tran quilly all morning, pulse about 105, respira quanty an morning, puise about 105, respira-tion 28, but varying, skin warm and moist. He coughs but little, and his mind is clear." At 4 o'clock it was announced that the General was resting easily, and that there was no change. The following was issued at 8:30 this evening:

The following was issued as considered evening:

"The afternoon has been a quiet one, without any incident worthy of mention. Sheridan's pulse is 108, respiration 35, temperature normal. His mind is perfectly clear. During the day he has shown great interest in current news."

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Dr. William Pepper said tonight that he could add nothing to the information contained in the published bulletins of today, except to say that all the intelligence from Washington indicated the could be supported by the country of lished bulietius of today, except to say that all the intelligence from Washington indicated that Sheridan had a good day. The fact of the bulletins being of uniformly favorable tone, the Doctor said, showed that the improvement of this morning had been well maintained. Dr. Pepper will not go to Washington tonight, nor will he again visit there until notitied by his colleagues in case that his presence is necessary. DISCOURAGING SYMPTOMS.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Though there has been no very decided change for the worse in Gen. Sheridan's condition during worse in Gen. Sheridan's condition during the day, yet during the last 24 hours the outlook has not been encouraging for him. There has been a continuance of high respiration, which marks the decided con-gention of the lungs, and the difficulty in breathing has weakened him and prevented him from securing much-needed rest. Here tofore there has been uniform improvement after an attack of heart failure, but now the patient does not seem able to raily.

COUNT MITKIEWIUZ.

His Alleged Chinese Conce

sutt in a Big Suit.

New York, June 8.—[By the Associated Press.] Through the attorneys of Count Eugene de Mitkiewicz of this city and Philadelphia, a complaint was filed today in the Court of Com-mon Pleas of Philadelphia against Wharton Barker, a Philadelphia capitalist, to compel the specific performance of agree ments of gigantic proportions under concessions by the Chinese Government, to supply the whole or parts of that territory covered by treaties, with telephone service through a company with a capital of $6,000,000, and to form another company with a capital of $20,000,000 with general banking. railroading and mining powers, also under the concessions from the Chinese Govern ment. The complaint sets forth that pri to March, 1887, plaintiff and Wi iam L. Paine, at great trouble and expense, succeeded in procuring the support of the Chinese Minister, Hi Chung Chang. The following agreement was then made: A company was to be formed to supply the Empire with a telephone service; plaintiff was to have three-twentleths of the stock, defendant thirteen-twentieths, and Paine four-twenti-eths. It was to be called the American Telephone Company, and $1,000,000 stock was to be limited to Chinese-subscriptions. The remainder of the stock was to be held by a company capitalized at $20,000,000, to be called the Oriental Company. This company was to have banking, railroading and mining powers, and the concessions for such grants were promised by Hi Chung Chang.

pany was to have banking, railroading and mining powers, and the concessions for such grants were promised by Hi Chung Chang.

On this promised concession, provisional certificates of stock were issued over the signatures of piaintiff and defendant to Chinese officials. Meantime an embassy was sent to the United States, in which was the envoy Ma Kie Chang, to see Barker and arrange matters. Complainant states that Chang was taken to the country-house of Barker and treated sumptuously, and that the outcome was a new agreement whereby plaintiff was left out in the cold, and between Barker, Hamilton, Diston, H. D. Fling, Francis D. Shepley, Ezra Bowen, Robert Glendenning, W. Massey, Thomas Potter, Jr., and George T. Tyler, a subscription of $1,000,000 was raised to meet the expenditures of the Chinese enterprise, Barker -representing that he was sole grantee of these concessions. An agreement was then made whereby Barker was made to sell one-quarter of his interest in the American and Oriental Companies for 25 per cent. of the par value. One-fifth of the proceeds was to be paid to the treasurer of the latter company. The remainder was to be to the company of Pennsylvania, with a capital of $5,000,000, all the stock to be paid up, and each stockholder to be given part of the stock of the American and Oriental Companies. All of these agreements Barker failed to fulfil, lacording to complainant, although pressed to do so by plaintiff and Paine.

Barker claims that the concessions were repudiated by the Viceroy. It is claimed that Barker represented otherwise to induce the $1,000,000 subscription. Plaintiff alleges that through Barker's failure to carry out these agreements he has not been able to fulfil inscreding to complainant, although pressed to do so by plaintiff and Paine.

THE SUGAR TRUST.

How Claus Spreckels Proposes to Break Its Power.
PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—[By the Assolated Press. | Claus Spreckels today, in the course of a conversation regarding the sugar industry, when asked to give some information about refineries in and out of the trust, said: "There are 20 refineries in the sugar trust. They have already been enumerated. As to those out of the trust enumerated. As to those out of the trust and their capacity, I can tell you something which may interest your readers. There is the California Sugar Refinery of San Francisco, with a daily capacity of 1,300,000 pounds. Then there is Harrison & Frazier, with about 1,500,000, and E. C. Knight & Co.'s, said to produce about 400,000 pounds a day. The refinery here will produce 2,000,000 pounds a day, making 5,000,000 or 6,500,000 pounds per day produced by refineries out of the trust. The consumption of sugar in the United States is 1,300,000 tons a year. The refineries out of the trust, including the new refinery, will produce, providing the capacity of the other refineries here given, is correct, 5,000,000 pounds daily, or 750,000 tons a year. This leaves only 550,000 tons a year 5,000,000 pounds daily, or 750,000 tons a year. This leaves only 550,000 tons a year for the refineries in the trust, or much less than half. You see, therefore, that the four refineries out of the trust have a greater capacity than the 20 in the trust, and have nothing to fear from them."

By Telegraph to The Times.

COLUMBUS (O.), June 8.—[By the Associated Press.] Brice's train, carrying the bhic delegation on its return from St. Louis arrived here at 4:30 this afternoon. Headed by a band and the Jackson Club, the delegation marched from the depot to the residence of Judge Thurman, where Hon. T. E. Powell spoke briefly of the work of the delegation at St. Louis, and then introduced Judge Thurman. After three cheers for Cleveland and Thurman, and the red bandana had been given, Judge

Thurman spoke as follows:
"I understand that many good people "I understand that many good people wink—and I do not deny the justice of their thoughts—that I am too old [laughter] to run for Vice President. Last night I stood here to speak to my fellow-citizens who came out my fellow-citizens who came out to greet me, and, upon my word, I expected to speak about five minutes, and I find I spoke about 20 minutes in a full voice and with immense fervor and vigor' [continued laughter and applause], and I should not be surprised if I should make such a fool of myself between now and the second Tues-day, or first Tuesday, in October [laughter and applause, and voices 'November']. November I mean, that I should be prancing day, or first Tuesday, in October [langhter and applause, and voices 'November'], November I mean, that I should be prancing around making speeches like a young man just out of his teens. [Renewed laughter.] But now, gentiemen, let me be serious a little. You know, gentiemen of the Ohio delegation, that when you were kind enough to call on me before you went to St. Louis, I told you, and God knows it was the honest truth, that I did not want the nomination; that what I wanted was peace and quiet, but that it was impossible for me to say that I would not refuse the nomination, for that would make me a candidate at once, and therefore, surrounded with these difficulties, I could conceive no other way, no other solution, than to place myself in your hands, and I did so freely, honestly, fairly, loyally, trusting that you would take care of my honor as well as the interests of the Democratic party. [Cheers, I Now, gentiemen, I do not undertake to speak for others, but for myself I say that you have done fairly and honorably and uprightly by me, and as long as I live, I shall always bear towards you grateful, heart-feit and, pleasant recollections. FOR BLAINE.

Some Ohio Republicans Still Hope for His Nomination. Springerisid (O.), June 8.—[By the As-sociated Press.] The Republicans of the Eighth Congressional District held an en-thusiastic meeting at Black's Opera-house last night. The meeting was addressed by William H. West, who nominated Blaine in 1884. He said the idea of the meeting was not to antagonize any of the distinguished gentlemen in convection with the Chicago gentlemen in connection with the Chicago Convention, but merely to express the pref-erence of Republicans of the district for a leader.

He doubted not that all the Republican candidates were qualified for the high office of President, but personal strength with the people, in addition to qualification, was demanded of the candidate this year. He said that Blaine had been driven from the contest by the indorsement of Sherman at Toledo, a year ago, and stated his belief that the Florence and Paris letters would never had been written had it not been for that indorsement. He expressed the belief that Blaine or Depew could poil $5,000 more votes in New York than any other candidate, and the party ought to be mindful of that fact.

Resolutions were adopted pledging support to the Chief.

Johnson having precedence, Elton's trial was continued until this morning in Department No. 1 of the Superior Court.

The notorious young crook refused to acquiesce in the arrangement, and walking from the dock to the bar of the court, he said: "If the Court please, every time my case has been called it has been postponed—this makes the fourth time. As I am suffering from asthma I want no further delay, but wish to be tried at once." "Well," said Judge Williams, "we can not try two cases at once; it will have to go over until tomorrow."

Elton returned disconsolately to his seat in the prisoner's dock, and a lady witness concerned in his case who was seated in court, made a remark to the District Attorney that she could not possibly testify in the case today. Upon being asked her reason, she said, "Tomorrow is the Seventh-day Sabbath and I cannot come into court."

She, like Elton, was doomed to disappointment, for the Court ordered all witnesses to be in attendance at 10 o'clock this morning, he not accepting the excuse of the lady with the Adventist proclivities.

Newsboys' Throats.
[San Diegan.]

"Of a dozen or more newsboys' throats that I have examined through curiosity," remarked a physician to the writer, "I have failed yet to find one in a healthy condition. The little urchins who peddle our papers for us suffer more than anybody else. I have a good deal of sympathy for the youngsters in bad weather, but if their parents do not attempt to do anything it is useless for any one else to attempt it. If I had a room with water and gas and a few chairs I would spend two or three evenings each week treating the boys for the throat disease from which they are suffering. The boys have not the intelligence necessary for appreciating the need of caring for themselves, but go about in all kinds of weather, and crying out every minute of the day, almost, to dispose of their papers."

THE PARKS.

A FEW OF THE PLEASURE RE SORTS OF THIS CITY.

The Sixth-street Park Will Soon Be a "Regular Beauty"-How the Pesthouse People Wanted to Destroy a Beautiful Park.

"Oh, what a lovely little place!" It was street park, and she wasn't far wrong. It is a lovely little place, and it isn't the only one. There are several lovely little places about this town, and it is strange why more thing in setting it aside as a public resort.

A good deal of money has been spent upon it in a quiet way and what there is of it is pretty. It is the favorite lounging place for the ultra-respectable, and about the only place where mammas can send the children for an airing. The score of seats scattered about the place are always occupied and as many more, if they were there, would find occupants. This park is more convenient on account of its central location than any of the others, and the people who have business down town find it nice to stop there in the shade, coming and going from home, and take a quiet rest. So during the middle of the day it is always full. In the afternoons children, accompanied sometimes by their parents and sometimes by their nurses, congregate there in great numbers, and for two or three hours preceding the going down of the sun and the coming chill of the night, the park is about the liveliest, merriest place in the town. Within a radius of two blocks around the park are some of the largest boarding-houses of the city. The occupants of these uset he park pretty much as those in the big residences use their front yards. The ladies come out there and read during the men take their constitutional under its trees and along its gravel walks.

But the shrubbery and the trees and the walks are the only recommendations the park can show. One of the most attractive of all things belonging to places of public resort is missing. It is music. In the center of the park is a band-stand or pavilion, and it seems that the intention has been to have music there some day. For a short while a few concerts were given at rare infervals, but they died away and are no more. Since that time the band-stand has been deserted, save now and then at the dead hour of night some strolling serenaders drop in for a few moments and give a few strains from a guitar or mandolin. That is about all the park hears nowadays. Still it is a popular place, is well kept, and is an ornament, though a small one, to the city. spent upon it in a quiet way and what there is of it is pretty. It is the Speaking of parks, the Second-street Park isn't an unpleasant place to spend a Speaking or parks, the Second-street Park isn't an unpleasant place to spend a time. They have the lake there which gives it place in that respect above the Sixth-street Park. It is small, and on Sundays especially is crowded, but it is nevertheless a good place to while away an hour. The zóölogical gardens, the flowers, the merry-go-round, the swings and the masic always furnished on Sundays are very good attractions in their way, and people who have seen them all dozens of times are glad to go back and look again. The park is a private institution, and was gotten up for the money that was in it, but it is still a place for the public as much as any of the others, and is just as popular. The picnics sometimes held there are not the nicest affairs in the world, at least the high society people won't have it that way, but though beer and other drinks are sold on the ground, nothing disorderly is permitted to go on, and a policeman is never needed. A keeper is always at the gate to refuse admittance to objectionable characters, and a plain drunk is led to the outside as soon as discovered. By these means the crowd is kept orderly. A very pleasant affair took a big crowd out there last night.

St. James Park is away out on Figueroa street, so far from the center of town that few loungers ever get out there. It is not so public as the other places, and does not attract so many people. It has become quite the correct thing, though, to drive through the grounds, and Sunday afternoons see a lot of elegant rigs whirling about over the drives. On account of its exclusiveness, small parties often resort to it for tennis games, and many a pleasant little picnic is held there. The grounds are pretty and well kept, and have more flowers about them than any of the others. If it were only nearer town and easier of access it would be the most beautiful and most popular place of the town.

AGRICULTURAL PARK.

Washington Gardens has the location Washington Gardens has the location, the grounds and everything to make it a real nice soot for a park, and might be the favorite place of the city, but they are telling rugged stories about what goes on inside that whitewashed fence in the dark hours of night, and the respectable dames, when they pass by on the outside, elevate their noses and turn their faces the other way, while in secret they whisper over the unsavory rumors that float out on the night wind from that horrid place, and say it's a shame that such should exist in a respectable community. These stories have rulined the garden so far as its being a resort for the respectable is Elysian Park, out in the kills north of town, will some day be a great place if the Elysian Park, out in the kills north of town, will some day be a great place if the city concludes to do anything toward beautifying it. The grounds are extensive, and from their location can be made beautiful beyond comparison, and the park would be one of the great things of Southern California. Just now there is a terrible wrangle going on over the pesthouse business. After apportioning the ground as a public park the Council turns on its heel when a location is wanted for a pesthouse, and says, "Put it in Elysian Park.' Immediately the Council had a storm about its ears. Protest after protest was hurled after them, and the first duty during the last two meetings has been to look over the lengthy petitions signed by the clitzens living around there. They say that they bought property there with the idea that a park was a certainty, and now to put a pesthouse on it would be forever to ruin it. No public resort to be successful could be in proximity to a pesthouse. Since such a terrible row has been raised, the Council has reconsidered its action, and the pesthouse is likely to be put off in some other corner, and the biggest park in the country be saved to the people.

What Am I to Do?

The symptoms of biliousness are unhapplly but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A bilious man is seldom a breakfast-eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids, but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and furred, it is rough, at all events. The digestive system is wholly out of order, and diarrhea or constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often hemorrhoids, or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness, and often headache and acidity or fatulence and tenderness in the pit of the stemach. To correct all this, if not effect a cure, try Green's August Flower; it costs but a trifle, and thousands attest its efficacy.

There has been considerable newspaper talk this spring of peach blight in the country. This may be the case in other localities, but with us the trees are groaning under their weight of fruit, many breaking completely down. There is also every promise of the largest orange crop ever known in the valley, there actually being as many young oranges on each tree as there are leaves.

Generous contributions were made towards the proposed fund needed to send an expert to Australia for the purpose of introducing into Los Angeles county a parasitical enemy of the white scale.

Alhambra has as handsome citrus orchards as there are in the county, of which the owners are justly proud, and every effort will be made to save them from the fate that has overtaken our neighbors.

TESTIMONIALS:

Pollowing are letters received by the Times-tror-Company from subscribers who have robased the Premium Sewing-machine rough us:

"GIVING PERFECT SATISFACTION."

J. W. Ross, Pasadena, writes: The Times-Mirror Sewing-machine is giving perfect satisfaction; in my opinion it is as good as any $65 machine. I have not done any heavy work on it yet, but I think it will do it all right.

"RIGHLY PLEASED WITH IT."

Mrs. Edwin Brown, Los Angeles: In reply to yours of 26th would state that I am highly pleased with the Prenium Sewing-machine I received with the Minnon. Gives every satisfaction; so easy to learn how to manage; does such excellent work; in fact cannot praise it too much, and would not take twice the amount it cost me.

THE MORE WE USE IT THE BETTER WE LIKE IT. Mrs. S. A. Ware, Fasadena: I have used your sewing-machine since last July. The more we use it the better we like it. On fine and heavy work it is splendid. We have tried the at achment. In fact it goes ahead of your advertisement so far.

"LIKE IT BETTER THAN THE $125 SINGER."
Joseph Wilson, Los Angeles: The machine gives entire satisfaction. My wife likes to better than the $125 Singer that it has replaced.

"GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION."

8. W True. East Los Angeles: We have the High-Arm Machine and use it for light family sewing. It gives good satisfaction.

They have used sev-eral of the bost nuckes of machines, and yet say your machine is superior in some respects to those they have used, and in no way inferior. They were at first afraid, as many are, no doubt, that it is too cheap to the first-class, but are now satisfied that it is as good as machines costing three or four times as much.

TIGHTENED THE SCREW AND SHE RUNS ALL

II. A. Myers Newball: Yours of the lst instreeived. Will say in reply that soon after I wrote you I discovered the cause of the trouble. The little tension screw in the shuttle had worked loose and was nearly out, and the shuttle thread, in sewing fax, would eath on the screw and be ak. I tightened the screw and it now works like a charm; no more breaking thread or irregularity of stitch.

Mrs. U. Is. Shaffer, Orange: We received our High-armed Sewing-machine in good order, and I am very much pleased with it, and consider it one of the best investments we ever made. It is nicely finished, and runs strong and light, doing nice work. Any one needing a good machine I do not think can do better than invest $2 in the machine and Mingor, for $2.50 when the Company pays freight to Los Angeles.]

The Premium Organ. Market price, $150. The WEEKLY MIRROR one year and this Organ for $60.16. Warranted for five years. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

After careful investigation and comparison we have at last succeeded in perfecting a contract for A FIRST-CLASS PARLOR ORGAN at inside factory prices, to sell to our patrons at about cost and expense added. We doubt if there be another firm or dealer on the Coast who will make such an offer on organs as this! Yet we have done so in the interests of our patrons. We have now the Organs for sale, and shall undertake the easy task of convincing the public that they are the EQUAL OF ANY $1.50 ORGAN MADE.

We will be opposed by manufacturers, dealers and agents of organs all over the country, but fact will sconer or later overcome ALL OPPOSITION.

OUR CONTRACT calls for an organ equal in every respect to those of any make that are listed in the market as $150 organs, we to give it a name. We have

Height 6 feet 9 inches, length 4 feet, depth 2 feet, -:- THE WEEKLY MIRROR ONE YEAR WITH EACH ORGAN. -:-

The Organs proper are all the same as regards the Reeds, Keys, Stops, Octaves, etc., the difference only being in price of woodwork or case. Our out represents No. 1. The cases are of SOLID BLACK WALNUT, with genuine French and venety panels, have two music pockets, one for books and one for sheet music. The best of seasoned materials is used, and no slighting of workmanship or finish will be found in any part.

Rach Organ is a complete first-class instrument in every respect. Contains two full set of reeds of five octaves each and divided coupler. Ten Stops, viz, Diapason, Meloda, Dulcet. Echo Principal, Plano, Celeste, Celestina, Bass Coupler and Trebie Coupler. The tone is smooth, clear and powerful. Every organ is warranted for five years by the maker. We deal only in first-class instruments.

Section 1. Section 1. Section 2. Section 2. Section 3. **

The Weekly Mirror for One Year Goes with Every Organ.

A club of 150 subscribers at $2 each for THE MIRROR will get the organ free for the club raiser, or for every club of 20 subscribers at $2 each we will deduct $5 from purchase money. Organs are shipped from Chicago at shippers' risk, purchasers paying freight charges.

A sample organ will be on exhibition in our office. Stools are $1 extra.

CONSUMPTION.

From consumers, "to waste away," usually applied to the advanced stage of lung disease. The following are prominent symptom#in the first sage, and whenever any of them exist a thorough examination should be made, with a view to arresting the disease as shown to exist: There is usually a sense of weariness upon a little exercise, a disposition to remain passive and idle, despondenc. often from no apparent cause, a peculiar sensitiveness upon moving quickly, or descending a hill or stairs, a slight, hacking couch, with or without expectoration, excitability upon slight occasions, flying pains through the chest or back, or under the shoulder blades. The symptoms are more noticeable toward or during the night, slight fever in the afternoon, cold feet or hands, or in many cases, blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger mails.

a common form of lung disease The progress is slow, but if left to itself is no less sure. It usually begins with a dry cough. Af first these tubercles are exceedingly minute, the patient not at all suspecting their presence. Gradually they develop into more active disease, and then follows the train of symptoms which leaves no doubt as to its true character. Sometimes spitting of blood or slight streaks in the mucus is the first indication of tubercular deposits, or it may be a chily sensation in the back, followed by more or less heat in the paims of the hands, or an afternoon flush on the cheeks. The slow and gradual inroads of this form of consumption leave the stomach and appetite undisturbed for a considerable time. Finally, however, hectic fever and night sweats supervene, preceded by diarrhoea. Then the loss of strength and flesh becomes rapid, the chest contracts, the features sharpen, the eye attains an unusual brilliancy, and the patient begins to realize that he is in the last stage of confirmed considerable time. Finally, however, hectic fever and night sweats supervene, preceded by diarrhoea.
